Our hands, like our feet and our noses, are the first parts of our body to feel the cold. In fact, as one of the body's extremities, blood circulation to this area is reduced. Because the blood flow is weaker, less heat is produced and many people often find themselves with cold hands.

A moment of comfort to enjoy

The Hottle rechargeable electric hot water bottle provides a delightful sensation of warmth for several hours, providing a real moment of comfort. The small pocket in the cover lets you slip your hands in to warm them up quickly.

Whether you're sitting in front of the computer or on the sofa, this small heated cushion is the ideal companion thanks to its practical size and light weight.

The hand warmer comes with an electric charger.

That little something extra ♺

The cover of the hot water bottle is made from recycled materials (PET from plastic bottles) creating a fabric that is soft and pleasant to the touch. ›
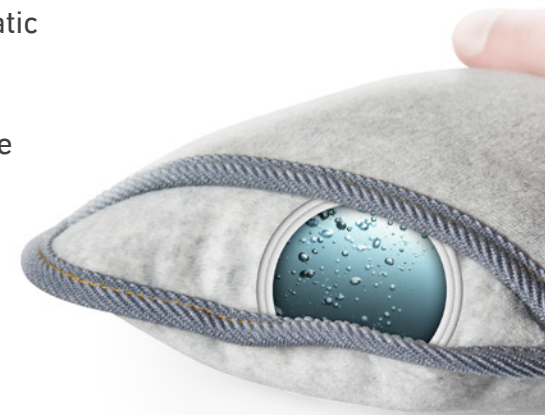

It couldn't be easier to use...

Ready to use, the rechargeable hot water bottle never needs refilling. Just plug it in for 10 minutes and it will charge fully. Once recharged, it diffuses a gentle and constant heat for at least 3 hours; plenty of time for some genuine relaxation.
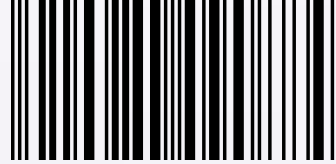

...in complete safety

The hot water bottle is equipped with a safety thermostat, which prevents overheating by coming to an automatic stop at the end of each charge.

In addition, the water pocket is made up of 3 layers of protection to keep it watertight.
